a coyote! ☐☐

This image is from a while back (last year in particular)

But once when my mom was driving me around, I saw a coyote!

At least I think its a coyote. Maybe it's a husky like dog, but I think it's a coyote because husky's don't look like that, and the dog has no collar, and nobody was around the dog.

Also, even though this was a wild animal, I do still remember having the urge to pet it ☐☐ whyyyy okay - I kinda hate this story but it's funny so I'll share it Basically, me and one of my friends where at the tennis court at our school for recess. Since we where not doing anything spectacular, we decided to start getting ready to enter the building early. Also, quick but important fact: the ground was wet since it has rained, and I was stepping a Cheeto into the dirt (don't ask why).

We went inside, and I started going up the stairs. Luckily, there was only a couple people on the stairs (since me and my friend headed in early). As I made it close to the top on the stairs, I slipped and collapsed onto the stairs like a big dumb, blob.

Then, a girl on a lower part of the staircase saw it and asked: "Are you okay?"

I replied "Yeah"

Then she said "You need to be more careful"

I died inside.

After that, I got back up and made it up the stairs, and I went up to the same friend and said "omg I just fell down the stairs lol"

Later, I asked my bestie what she saw said she only saw me collapsed on the stairs, and never got to see the part where I fell

While I freaked out in the moment, I also thought "lol that was probably the funniest thing ever"

And if anything, now when I go inside with the same friend I say "hopefully I don't fall down the stairs this time!"

The lesson? DON'T STEP ON CHEETOS! ☹️
